Many Women in this Condition Regain Health by Taking Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Convincing Proof of This Fact.

Ridgway, Penn. — "I suffered from female trouble with backache and pain in my side for over seven months so I could not do any of my work. I was treated by three different doctors and was getting discouraged when my sister-in-law told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her. I decided to try it, and it restored my health, so I now do all of my housework which is not light as I have a little boy three years old." — Mrs. O. M. Runkes, Ridgway, Penn.

Mrs. Lindsey Now Keeps House For Seven.

Tennille, Ga. — "I want to tell you how much I have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all. The doctor said I had a severe case of ulceration and without an operation I would always be an invalid, but I told him I wanted to wait awhile. Our druggist advised my husband to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has entirely cured me. Now I keep house for seven and work in the garden some, too. I am so thankful I got this medicine. I feel as though it saved my life and have recommended it to others and they have been benefited." — Mrs. W. E. Lindsey, R. R. 3, Tennille, Ga.

PRELIMINARY STEPS ARE TAKEN

Paris Conference to Further
Project After Attending to Italy

London, Nov. 7. — It is now known that last week's conference by the allied political and military leaders in London were among the most important of the entire war. Not only was the Italian situation discussed with reference to immediate relief measures, but preliminary plans were considered for the co-ordination and unification of all naval, military and economic operations.

It is expected that particular attention will be directed, whenever the Italian situation shall become less absorbing, to the huge problem of closely organizing virtually the entire world, outside the central empires, in a league designed to bring the universal financial and material resources to bear more strongly against the Huns.

The scheme involves reciprocal and community relations among the countries possessing the capacity to provide particular necessities, whether of food or industrial products, man power or financial capacity. In short, it represents a gigantic project, literally mobilizing and organizing the world against Germany.

It is not known what preliminary work heretofore has been done in this connection, or how long it will require to work out such a scheme among the nations, or the extent to which the governments have tentatively acquiesced in the plan. Only general intimations of such an enterprise thus far have been given out.

The Italian situation continues to be regarded as grave, in view of the Austro-Germans crossing the Tagliamento and maintaining a heavy pressure against the Italians. Reports agree that the French and English were remarkably successful in hurrying reinforcements to Italy, where they were received with great enthusiasm by both the people and the soldiers. The French authorities are credited with special promptness, efficiency and foresight in rushing effective reinforcements southward.

There is much variety of opinion as to what American forces are now in Europe. Circumstantial reports indicate that the numbers are already vastly greater than is commonly known, either there or in America. Germany is not deceived in this matter and she is making extreme efforts to win a spectacular success in Italy preparatory to a new bid for peace. This opinion is everywhere accepted.

In this connection significance is attached to the Dutch reports that Austria and Germany are preparing an upward revision of their war aims and demands in the event of decided success in Italy. These stories are undoubtedly inspired as a part of the German game designed to frighten people, if not the governments, of the allied countries; to cause the masses of the people to fear a very long war and accordingly strengthen the hands of the pacifists everywhere.

If such be the German purpose, there is every indication of its failure. British labor is strongly supporting the war policy, as indicated in the result of the strike ballot by South Wales miners where the proposal to strike was overwhelmingly defeated without serious outside urgency because the miners were convinced that it was nationally necessary for the industry to proceed.

Likewise in both Italy and France political bickerings have been forced into

"providing satisfactory guarantees can be obtained with regard to the independence and restoration of Belgium and the evacuation of occupied territory, that no obstacle should be placed in the way of preliminaries towards negotiations for a peace settlement which ought to embody an equitable solution of the problem of Alsace-Lorraine and of devising the enforcement of effective international machinery for the avoidance of future wars."
